

Peter et Kimberley en Europe 2011

France
(plus Andorra and Monaco)

First we dropped into little Andorra,
between Spain and France

where the weather caught us by surprise.....

In France it got better

(well, sort of)

We've been practising our French

(but we're still terrible at it)

Food is very pretty here,

and the stinkier
the cheese,
the better it
tastes!

As for the roads.... ahem....

and as a side note: today someone scratched ours while it was parked! :-)

But the main reason to visit is....

the countryside?

the monuments?

the beaches?

It's a real flamingo feather!

The flamingos aren't the only ones pretty in pink

meeting
the locals?

the markets?

or just to pretend
you're a celebrity
on the Cote d'Azur?

We're off to Ireland and the UK now.
It will be a tough ask for them to live up to what we have seen so far.
Can't wait for the next chapter!

Au revoir!